Text to Whitman Songs:

To All Those Who've Fail'd,

To all those who've fail'd,
In aspiration vast,
To many a lofty song and picture,
Without recognition.
To all cut off before their time,
Possessed by some strange spirit of fire,
Quenched by an early death:
I'd rear a laurel covered monument,
High above the rest.

When I Heard the Learned Astronomer

When I heard the learned astronomer,
When the proofs, the figures, were ranged before me,
When I was shown the charts and diagrams,
To add, divide, and measure them,
When I, sitting, heard the astronomer,
Where he lectured, with much applause,
How soon I became tired and sick,
Till rising and gliding off by myself,
In the mystical, moist night air,
And looked up,
Looked up at the stars,
And looked up, in perfect silence,
Perfect silence.
Looked up in perfect silence.
At the stars,
Looked up, in perfect silence,
At the stars.
At the stars.
